3:30-4:30 – School-Based Environment Education Coordination

Laura Plaut, Common Threads Farm

Hear about the coordination efforts of a group of environmental educators from about 20 organizations that offer school-based programs to students in Whatcom County. At a June 2013 WWIN meeting, this group gathered with the goal of understanding who was doing what, where, and how we could better coordinate to fill the gaps and reduce duplication. In 2016, the group met two more times and has made great progress towards creating a sustainable collaborative working group. The group is currently working toward developing a searchable directory of programs available to Whatcom County students, as well as looking for funding to sustain our group's projects.

This is an opportunity to build on conversations from the previous meetings; your engagement in this conversation is encouraged!
